RUMANIA IN PLEA FOR AID

Carol Begs London, Paris And Russia 'Stop Hitler'

BULLETINS

PRAGUE, March 18 (INS)—The bulk of German occupation forces in Prague moved rapidly out of the city today, reportedly heading in an eastward direction.

Troops on duty at crossroads and before public buildings were replaced by units of the German police and storm troopers. German military airplanes droned ceaselessly overhead.

BUCHAREST, March 18 (INS)—Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu of Rumania today received the British, German, Bulgarian and Hungarian ministers. Purpose of the consultation was not revealed.

LONDON, March 18—Grave fears Adolf Hitler plans an almost immediate coup in Rumania today prompted Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to summon an emergency cabinet session at which a reported "appeal" from King Carol will be considered.

No details could be learned in London concerning the appeal but in Paris it was learned on unimpeachable authority that King Carol had sent a private telegram to King George of England informing him that Hitler had served an "economic ultimatum" on Rumania.

King Carol was reported to have appealed to Britain, France and Russia to lend him their support against Nazi aggression.

King Carol was understood to have conveyed to Britain his fears that Rumania is in grave danger and was reported to have said that his country would fight rather than submit to loss of territory or independence.

He further was reported to have intimated plainly that if Britain, France and Russia stand by him, he is confident he will be able to rally Poland, Bulgaria, and the entire Balkan entente.

Viorel Titea, Rumanian minister to London, had a long private consultation with Lord Halifax. He was understood to have informed the foreign secretary that Rumania was ready to man its defenses. He described Hungarian occupation of Ruthenia (Carpatho-Ukraine) as the first stage of aggression against Rumania.

It was reported in London that five army corps were being mobilized in Bucharest, while six classes of reserves were ordered to stand by for further orders.

Carol's Troops Move

BUCHAREST, March 18—Rumania answered Hitler's demand for submission today by ordering 40,000 crack troops to the Ruthenian and Hungarian borders.

The government's determination to resist was approved at a meeting of the Crown Council, presided over by King Carol.

BRITAIN WARNS GERMANY ACTS BREAK MUNICH PACT

LONDON, March 18 (INS)—Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, was instructed today to inform the German government Great Britain regards Hitler's coup in Czechoslovakia as illegal.

An official announcement stated Sir Neville was instructed to inform the Wilhelmstrasse Britain regards the changes effected by German military action as "without legal basis."

It also was announced he had been ordered to inform Berlin that in the opinion of the British government recent events in Czechoslovakia represent "complete repudiation" of the four-power Munich

Howland's Own Story of N.H. Murder

Ragged, bushy-haired and dirty, but boastful, according to authorities, John Henry Howland, sought since February 3 on the charge of murdering 61-year-old Grace Horne at Milton, N. H., today was in Corpus Christi, Texas, county jail, awaiting removal by Federal agents to New Hampshire. Here is his own story of a month and a half of wanderings, obtained exclusively by the Boston Evening American by long distance telephone:

By JOHN HENRY HOWLAND
as told to

Earl C. Dunn, Special Investigator, in Corpus Christi
(Copyright by the New England Publishing Company, March 18, 1939)
I killed Grace Horne and I'm ready to face the music.

Yes, I stole the old lady's automobile and took Aida Butler with me in the get-away.

We've been happy together, and you can take me back to New Hampshire now whenever you get ready.

Only don't blame Aida. The only thing she's guilty of is falling in love with me. I guess she's in for a lot of trouble.

When the cops came down to the freight yard I decided it wasn't worth fighting any longer. After all, there always was the chance we would be let go. We had before. It's a wonder there wasn't more people killed than there were. Once in New Hampshire and again in Philadelphia the cops stopped us.

JOHN H. HOWLAND
"I Did It"

I had a shotgun in the car. I was all set to let them have it if they told us they were taking us in. READY TO KILL

I won't tell you how Aida happened to be with me when I started out. I loved her and I guess everyone knows she must have loved me to go along.

We hadn't gone very far the first night before two New Hampshire troopers stopped us. I had the sawed-off shotgun then and I got set to use it if necessary, but I was able to talk our way out. Everything went fine after that until we hit Philly.

A couple of cops in a cruiser got suspicious of us and they pulled us up to question us.

I talked fast and made sure the shotgun was in reach in case of trouble. I told them we were all mixed up and couldn't seem to find our way out of town. I said we were going south to Florida.

Well, would you believe it, the cops even gave us a police escort out of town? They must have ridden ahead for three miles until they showed us a through highway to the south. Believe me, I said "Thanks."

GETS RID OF CAR
We kept going and we made a lot of stops.

Aida was a darn fine girl. She did everything I told her to. I guess I've never been any happier.

GRACE HORNE
Slaying Victim

Fight to Save Child - Wife Traps Slayer

By JOSEPH FRANKLAND

John Henry Howland, lanky 175-pound ex-sailor, ex-convict, ex-deputy sheriff from Milton, N. H., sat in a cell at Corpus Christi, Tex., county jail today.

"I did it," authorities quoted him as saying. "I killed Grace Horne. I'm ready to go back and face the music now."

"But go light on the girl. She wasn't in it."

In another cell, 50 feet away, was "the girl." Police say she is Aida Butler, 15-year-old runaway cousin of Howland.

"But I'm not," she insisted through tears. "I'm not—"

"I'm Mrs. Grace Bowles. That man is Jim Bowles and I love him. We were married two years ago. You've made a terrible mistake. Please let us go."

Then a kindly matron told her it was no use and that the man she loved had told everything. She must go back to New Hampshire.

And "everything," he had told, according to police—boastfully and without prompting.

GIRL WELL PRESSED

The girl was clad in a fresh, flowered print dress. She was wonderfully pretty, despite days of freight car life.

Howland was bewildered, in travel-stained dungarees, shabby shirt and broken shoes. The 25-year-old wanderer had come a long way since "murder" circulars were broadcast depicting him as a dapper, handsome Lothario.

Yet he hadn't forgotten how to brag, the authorities said.

Step by step, authorities said, he told of a month and a half flight from justice through 12 states.

He scoffed at police. He chuckled in describing how police three times had him in their

Jackie Coogan Woes Fade; He Gets Film Job

HOLLYWOOD, March 18 (AP)—Things were looking better today for Jackie Coogan, who won fame as the ragged "kid" of silent films.

Embroidered for months in a court battle with his stepfather and mother, the Arthur Bernsteins, over his earnings as a juvenile and estranged for several weeks from his wife, blonde and beautiful Betty Grable, young Coogan was hopeful that his troubles were past.

His attorneys announced that a settlement of his accountings suit was ready for filing, but made public no terms.

And the Paramount studio announced that Jackie had been signed for a supporting role in his wife's new picture, "Million Dollar Legs." It will be his first film appearance since "College Swing," in which he also played with the eye-catching Betty.

STATE COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE PROBED

Handwriting Expert Checks Signatures

Robert Phipps, handwriting expert of the state police, has been appointed to search for irregularities in all signatures of State Comptroller George A. Murphy calling for the issuance of public funds, it was learned today.

6 IN N. E. AWAIT RICHES

Six New England men and women waited in New York today for the next legal step that will bring them their shares of the $877,500 Wood estate.

The six heirs, four of whom are from Massachusetts, won their shares of the money of Mrs. Ida E. Wood, "Little Widow of Herald Square," after seven years of litigation.

The test finally named as heirs in New York by Surrogate James A. Foley were winnowed from a list of 1107 original claimants. Although theoretically each of the heirs will receive $147,916, it is expected that taxes, expenses and legal fees will shave that total by 60 per cent.

Those named to share equally were:

Mrs. Winifred McEneaney, Milton st., Lawrence; Stephen L. Gallagher, Milton st., Lawrence; Mrs. Katherine J. Sheehan, Row st., Salem; Thomas F. O'Donnell, Bow

Mrs. Sheehan T. F. O'Donnell

st., Salem; William F. Murphy, East Providence, R. I.; and Catherine Kennedy, Bridgeport, Ct.

The estates of Thomas F. Reynolds, Addington rd., West Roxbury; Eugene F. O'Donnell, Jersey City, N. J.; Hugh Kennedy and Michael Kennedy, Dublin, Ireland. Mrs. Wood died at the age of 90 in March, 1932, after living as a recluse for 24 years. Although living in virtual poverty, she carried nearly $1,000,000 in cash and jewels in paper bags concealed in the folds of her skirt.

Allowance of the claim of the estate of Thomas F. Reynolds of West Roxbury will give his share of the estate to Bernard B. Whelan, Boston fire department wire division superintendent, and his wife, Mrs. Mary J. Whelan.

Both were named as his heirs in the will of Reynolds, who died last August. The Whelans have three daughters, Marion, 21; Claire, 19, and Bernadine, 9.

Mrs. McEneaney is the wife of Patrick McEneaney, a government inspector at Boston. They have a daughter, Anna. Gallagher is Mrs. McEneaney's brother and has made his home with them, being a traveling salesman for a leather firm.

Mrs. Sheehan is the wife of Maurice Sheehan, Salem plumber, and O'Donnell is her brother. Another brother was the Eugene O'Donnell, whose estate was granted a share. Murphy is employed as a repairman by the Providence Gas Company.

Mrs. Wood made most of her fortune in stocks but ceased her operations just before the 1907 panic, withdrawing all her money from banks and retreating to the seclusion of her Herald sq. hotel room.

Carefully refraining from making specific charges, Governor Saltonstall said things that had come to his attention indicated the need of a sweeping investigation.

Other Republicans on Beacon Hill predicted a State House scandal of major proportions.

Comptroller Murphy, an Ely appointee, also served under Currier and Hurley, comes from Lowell. He heads an organization that disposes of millions of dollars annually.

A report by a firm of certified accountants said that Murphy's signature appeared "different" on some of the documents awarding public money.

The report added that Murphy stated he once authorized another to use his signature on such a document.

The governor revealed that he had employed the private firm of accountants to probe the comptroller's department, and that the accountants had found "a considerable number of questionable signatures" in the files.

Captain John F. Stokes, head of the state police, and Phipps' superior, is heading the probe. Comptroller Murphy's post pays $6500 a year.

Patrolman G. F. Twigg Dies in Brighton

Patrolman George F. Twigg, 44, a member of the Boston police department since 1926, died today at his home, Washington street, Brighton. His wife, Marion, and four-year-old daughter, Barbara, survive him.

Burial will be in Holyhood cemetery, Tuesday, following funeral services at Our Lady of the Presentation church, Brighton. He was a World War veteran.

BROOKLINE'S RENO BRIDE—After romantic dash from Brookline to Reno, pretty Bette Wynne, 23, was married to artist Mark ter Vehn... and today set out on a California honeymoon.

Hub Artist, Brookline Bride on Honeymoon

Wed at Reno, after love laughed at miles to bring their transcontinental romance to a happy consummation, a pretty Brookline bride and her Boston artist husband were honeymoon-tripping today to the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco.

The bridegroom, talented young Mark ter Vehn, formerly of Charles street, is in charge of art designs for the California exposition's educational exhibit.

WED IN NEVADA

She and ter Vehn met at San Francisco, but they chose Nevada for their wedding in order to avoid delay in obtaining the marriage license.

The ceremony was performed yesterday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben S. Wyner. Her father is a prominent Boston attorney. She is a niece of Judge Francis Wyner of Brookline district court.

Bette attended House in the Pines school, Norton, and Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., where she developed a flair for dramatic work.

Plans twice upset. Her romance with young ter Vehn began when he and she were associated in an amateur theatrical venture at Weston, Vt. He designed the stage settings. She directed the production.

Because Artist ter Vehn's budding career took him first to Washington, D. C., then to San Francisco, wedding plans of the couple were twice frustrated.

First tentative date set for the ceremony was Christmas day, second was St. Valentine's day.

On both occasions, the wedding was to have been in Boston, and on both occasions it had to be postponed.

Miss Wyner's dash across the continent—and the informal Nevada marriage—solved the problem.

The bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. H. C. ter Vehn of Mt. Vernon, O. He is a graduate of Wittenberg College, in Ohio.

NEW YORK MILK CUT 21-4 CENTS

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Housewives in the New York metropolitan area rejoiced today at the biggest drop in milk prices in 20 years—a reduction of 24 cents a quart.

Heavy cream goes down 4 cents a half pint.

The new prices announced by the Borden Company, one of the two leading distributors in the New York milk shed, become effective tomorrow.

Taking other distributors in the $2,000,000-a-year dairy industry by surprise with a one-cent reduction generally expected, the Borden Company's action marked the first step in an expected milk-price war. Rival companies were expected to follow suit over the weekend.

Borden Company officials said their distribution would provide about 800,000 quarts of cheaper milk in the metropolitan zone. Altogether, about 3,500,000 quarts of milk are distributed daily in the area.

The cut will reduce Borden's prices for both Grade "A" and Grade "B" milk for home delivery to 14½ cents and 11½ cents, respectively—the lowest in two years—and heavy cream to 18 cents a half pint.

Polls Opened In Boystown Mayor's Race

One of Greater Boston's hottest "political" battles of the year was climaxed today in Charlestown—as boy voters went to the polls to elect the district's third "Junior Mayor."

Six youthful candidates are in the field, still carrying on whirlwind campaigns. The voting, which is now under way, will continue all week, the winner being named at 10 a. m. next Saturday.

"Registered voters," entitled to cast ballots, are more than 1000 members of the Charlestown branch of the Boys' Clubs of Boston. Their ages range from seven to 14.

Running for re-election is Charlestown's present "Junior Mayor," Nick Valeriani.

He won the office a year ago, defeating the then incumbent, Joe Kane, first "Junior Mayor" of the district.

Success of Mayor Valeriani's 12 months' administration has made him an odds-on favorite for re-election.

But still in the running, bent on giving him the fight of his "political" career, were five formidable opponents.

They include Frank Tucker, husky leader of the Never Say Die party; Francis Brennan, Independent; Jimmy Doherty, Free Ticket candidate; Harold Bradshaw, Liberal Party nominee; and Bobby Fitzgerald, Union Party standard bearer.

Son Jim Unperturbed Over U. S. Film Suit

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—James Roosevelt, son of the President, apparently was unperturbed today at being named defendant in a Justice Department anti-trust suit against the motion picture industry.

At Hollywood, where "Jimmy" is a board member of United Artists, his only comment was:

"I believe I have been named in the place of James Muley, whose place I took on the United Artists board."

Emil Jannings Gets Hitler Medal

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler today awarded the Goethe medal for art and science to Emil Jannings, the actor.

Strike by Dracut Students Wins Fired Coach Hearing

DRACUT, March 18—More than 350 Dracut High School "sit-down" strike students today had won a first move in the protest program to retain their ousted athletic coach, Spencer F. Sullivan.

Chairman Robert M. Chenevert of the school committee announced Sullivan will be given a public hearing Monday over his dismissal as both coach and athletic director.

At the same time it was learned that members of the school committee were meeting today with six student representatives in an effort to have them return to classes Monday morning, pending action at Monday night's hearing.

After staging a walkout, in which all but a few of the members of the student body participated, and later picketing the homes of school committee members, bearing placards and signs: "We want Sullivan," "We Want our Coach," the "strikers" agreed to select a committee of six students to confer with the school heads.

The walkout of the students, forcing the suspension of classes, and the subsequent sit-down strike in the school auditorium, where the strikers, boys and girls, amused themselves by singing, cheering and playing basketball, followed an announcement that Sullivan, former Providence College athlete and popular coach of all sports, had been dismissed by the school committee. He was retained merely in a teaching capacity as a member of the high school faculty.

Despite pleas by Principal Rene Berardin, the students refused to attend classes. Even when Sullivan himself addressed them in the auditorium, they refused to give up the strike. Later, walking five abreast and bearing placards, the entire student body paraded through the town to alarm homes of school committee members.

The motion to depose Sullivan was presented by School Committeeman Warren V. Fox. Asked to comment he said:

"I voted to discharge Sullivan. I have nothing more to say."

After first refusing to address the student gathering, Frederick Gunther said:

"We were not given proper cooperation by Sullivan. There will be no reversal of my vote."

The school committee appointed as Sullivan's successors, John Robinson, former Holy Cross athlete, as baseball coach; and Arthur Shandall, a graduate of Salem Teachers College, as basketball coach. No football coach was named.

Woman Dies Despite Aid From Firemen

Stricken in her home, in Corey rd., Brighton, Mrs. Sarah Spinner, 64, was dead today despite the efforts of firemen, a doctor and a relative who worked over her for more than two hours. Death was believed due to natural causes. Mrs. Celie Spinner, 42, her stepdaughter summoned the doctor and then ran into the street in her nightclothes and pulled a fire alarm box.

Maid Freed In Pa. Slaying

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 18 (AP)—A jury freed Angeline Maravola, slender 22-year-old housemaid, who was charged with slaying Michael J. Rich, Jr., 23, son of her well-to-do employer, because he refused to keep a promise of marriage.

Jap Planes Bomb U. S. Baptist Hospital

SHANGHAI, March 18 (AP)—American missionaries of the Southern Baptist Convention at Chengchow, Honan Province, reported today that six persons were killed or injured yesterday when the Baptist Hospital was struck by bombs during a Japanese air attack on the city.

A large refugee camp conducted by the mission also was struck, with 200 casualties. Americans in Chengchow include six persons attached to the Baptist Mission and a woman Red Cross worker, none of whom was injured in the raids.

The car, which police said was driven by Edward Lindsey, 35, of York terrace, Brookline, plowed more than half-way through the metal work of the gate. Its top was sheared off completely by a heavy steel beam.

The car was traveling toward Boston from Charlestown at the time the drawbridge swung open for a passing ship. A skid on slippery street car tracks caused the crash.

Lindsey was knocked unconscious. A passing motorist dragged him from the wreckage. He was rushed to City Hospital and treated for cuts on the nose and forehead.

For more than two hours, traffic over the "high" bridge was impeded as police and garage men worked to clear away the wrecked machine.

Find Students Faked Protest

HARTFORD, Ct., March 18—State Education Commissioner Alonzo Grace found today that "where there's smoke, there's fire"—and so did four apologetic students of Torrington Trade School.

Investigating a letter from "A Parent," seeking an end to the no smoking ban for pupils, Commissioner Grace learned four students were responsible for a letter informing him that "instructors smoked during school hours and that students ought to be allowed to do the same."

He promised appropriate punishment for the four, one who conceived, one who composed, one who addressed and a fourth who admired the work of the others. He declined to reveal their names.

Quentin Roosevelt Flies to Shanghai

SHANGHAI, March 18 (AP)—Quentin Roosevelt, 19-year-old Harvard sophomore, arrived by airplane from Japan today, enroute to Tibet where he plans to hunt for skulls, golden monkey furs and rare species of small Asiatic animals for a Boston museum. He expects to return to his home in Oyster Bay, New York, in June.

DRAMATICALLY, Rev. Francis Egan, of St. James Church, South End, administers last rites of the church through grillwork of elevator in Summer street building to Mrs. Julia Lawless, 37, of Charlestown, who was crushed to death between the shaft wall and the elevator.

ELEVATOR FATALITY PROBED BY POLICE

Police and city inspectors today sought to determine the cause of the tragedy in which Mrs. Julia J. Lawless met death in a downtown building elevator.

She was crushed to death between the car and the shaft just beyond the seventh floor.

Mrs. Lawless, 37, of Concord street, Charlestown, was operating the car while her young daughter awaited her return on the second floor.

The building is on Summer street, just across the street from the South Station.

Firemen worked for nearly two hours with acetylene torches to remove the body, wedged between floor and car.

Mrs. Lawless

Police after Rev. Francis Egan of St. James' Church, Harrison avenue, standing on the shoulders of firemen, had administered last sacraments of the Catholic Church.

Mrs. Lawless, police said, had just reported for work in the building, where she was employed as superintendent of cleaners, and had taken a passenger to the first floor in the elevator. Her daughter, Theresa, 18, was waiting for her at the second floor.

As the runaway elevator rose through the shaft, building at-aches told police they heard her scream, "the elevator is going up, I can't stop it."

Running upstairs in pursuit of the elevator, Mrs. Catherine Smith of Flint st., another building employee, said she found the elevator door open at each landing, where Mrs. Lawless apparently had attempted to escape. At the top floor she found the woman's body crushed between the stalled elevator and the shaft.

Police Interrupt Two Breaks, Nab 5 Men

Police of the Back Bay and East Boston made two captures at gunpoint today, arresting five men allegedly caught attempting two breaks.

Patrolmen Michael Burns and Benjamin Hunk of East Boston nabbed a trio of thieves in an Orleans street tavern when they heard the crash of breaking glass.

Two men were arrested in a grocery store in Burbank street, Back Bay. On one suspect police found $23, allegedly taken from the cash register, while his companion had an armful of merchandise.

NAZIS PROCLAIM

OWN 'MONROE DOCTRINE'

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, March 18.—A Teutonic "Monroe Doctrine" for Central Europe was proclaimed by Germany today as Hitler's angry answer to British and American condemnation of his "protection" over Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, who bitterly denounced Hitler for "broken promises," was accused by Germany of "extreme prejudice" and Sumner Welles, acting United States Secretary of State, who labelled the Czech affair "wantonly lawless," was branded an "idle dreamer."

The world might just as well realize, it was pointed out, that Nazi Germany is acting now "just as the United States acted in Texas and California," and it was made abundantly clear that no protests from abroad would swerve Hitler from his chosen path.

SILENT ON RUMANIA

There was no illumination thrown in Berlin on reports reaching London that Germany had served something in the nature of an "economic ultimatum" on Rumania in furtherance of Hitler's "drive to the East."

But so far as Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia are concerned, the government took the view that what happened was inevitable.

"The Reich has created and is carrying out its own Monroe Doctrine in Central Europe," a government spokesman told this correspondent.

"Germany considers itself entirely justified, and is just as much entitled to do this as in the United States in its own particular sphere of influence."

"Mr. Welles has used the term 'wantonly lawless.' We can only ask him whether the United States ever saw fit to apply such a term to its action in incorporating Texas, California and other territories into its domain."

"America is very sensitive about its Monroe Doctrine, and heartily dislikes anything like disturbances in certain spheres under its influence. We now have our own Monroe Doctrine in the Central European sphere and we are equally sensitive about it."

"This is something that the United States should not forget. With regard to Welles' statements about the 'sanctity of treaties' and 'broken pledges,' need we remind him of the broken pledges of Wilson's 14 points?"

The speech of Prime Minister Chamberlain, it was said, was "extremely prejudiced" and constituted an "unfair view of the situation."

"It was obviously made under Rooseveltian influence," the spokesman said.

BULLETIN

LONDON, March 18 (INS).—The Daily Express said today in a dispatch from Prague that German mechanized and infantry units were pushing through Slovakia to the border of Carpatho-Ukraine.

Reinforcements have been rattle through Prague day and night, the newspaper said. At least three full motorized army divisions including anti-aircraft batteries left the former Czech capital for the borders of Slovakia and Poland, the dispatch added.

Carol's Troops In War Move

The decision came quickly after a virtual ultimatum by Hitler that Rumania place itself under control of Nazi Germany if it desired its frontiers to remain secure.

It was learned reliably that Carol's government bluntly rejected the German demand, which was three-fold: First, that Rumania cease development of her industrial power and concentrate on agriculture; second, that her valuable exports of oil, grain, cattle, timber and food supplies go only to Germany; and third, that she accept a German guarantee of her borders. The "economic ultimatum," according to the dispatches from Bucharest, was delivered to Premier Armand Calinescu's Rumanian cabinet by Dr. Hriemuth Wohlsat, chairman of a German economic commission in Bucharest.

The echoes of Hitler's subjugation of Czechoslovakia were still ringing throughout the world when this report reached London, giving rise to the fear that the German dictator already had begun heavy pressure on Rumania, a neighbor of the Soviet Union.

First details of the reported German "proposal" in Bucharest were published this morning by the diplomatic correspondents of the influential London Times and Daily Telegraph.

AN EXPANDING GERMANY.—The above artist's map shows how Germany has increased its territorial boundaries since the Saar plebiscite of January 14, 1935, when it won back its first patch of lost ground. Arrows indicate how the Nazis "Drang nach Osten" (March to the East) is swiftly becoming an accomplished fact instead of a mere national slogan.

FRANCE RECALLS ENVOY; PLANS TO AD RUMANIA

PARIS, March 18 (AP).—France today summoned her ambassador to Berlin back to Paris for consultation and dispatched a note to the Nazi government saying she did not recognize the German occupation of Czechoslovakia as legitimate.

Both moves paralleled actions by Great Britain. The British government yesterday ordered its ambassador home from Berlin and today sent a note similar to France's.

The ambassador to Berlin, Robert Coulondre, was instructed to present the French note to Germany at once.

In answer to the summons to return to Paris, it was expected the envoy would arrive here Monday for consultation and a report on the situation.

AID FOR RUMANIA?

Daladier later received British Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps, at the latter's request, for a half-hour talk in his private office.

This unusual procedure led immediately to two reports in the chamber's corridors:

1.—That the British required Daladier's support for a note to Bucharest telling King Carol how far they would go in backing him up against Hitler.

2.—That Sir Eric conveyed an invitation to the premier to accompany President Albert Lebrun, who goes to London Tuesday for a state visit.

These moves came as Daladier won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies during debate on his demand for secret and almost dictatorial powers.

Daladier's vote of confidence was 354 to 258. The balloting was on a motion of Rightist Deputy Henri de Kersille that the lower house refuse to discuss the decree demands.

Polish Youths Cry 'Down With Germany'

WARSAW, March 18 (AP).—Twenty persons were under arrest today following an attempt of 200 youthful Socialists to march to the foreign office with shouts of "Down With Germany!" Police halted the Socialists before they could reach the foreign office.

agreement signed by Britain, Germany, France and Italy.

Sir Neville also was told to assert that Hitler's action repudiated the undertaking of peaceful co-operation exchanged at the time of the Munich accord.

CALLS HITLER TRAITOR

Opinion began to harden in British and French circles in London that Hitler will use the momentum generated by his Czech coup to the last ounce of energy to gain further advantages in Europe.

That this process already has begun was regarded as a possibility when German Ambassador von Dirksen visited the British foreign office at noon.

Callers streamed into the foreign office all morning long, including the Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England.

KENNEDY CALLED IN

Lord Halifax received United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, who has been keeping in close touch with the situation and has been sending lengthy reports to Washington.

He also saw the Soviet and French ambassadors. These three visits inevitably revived talk of four-power ambassadorial discussions in London to deal with the situation, but Whitehall frowned upon it.

"All that can be said at present," a spokesman declared, "is that close consultations among the great democracies are being carried on through diplomatic channels."

Almost nation-wide approval of Chamberlain's speech was apparent. His forthright language was hailed by virtually the entire British press. Sir Neville Henderson's stay in London will be for an "indefinite" period unless there are signs of a German change of attitude.

Reliable diplomatic circles forecast a series of German offensive preparations during the coming few weeks, and insisted the German military measures already undertaken were much more extensive than the mere "bloodless conquest" of Czechoslovakia justified.

It was claimed German reservists are being called up and that there is every indication of a "further effort" at expansion by the Reich on a much wider front than heretofore attempted.

Bulletins

BUDAPEST, March 18 (AP).—An official statement today announced the Hungarian army was in full control of Carpatho-Ukraine, easternmost province of Czechoslovakia which was annexed Thursday. It was interpreted as showing the army had reached the Polish border but not that the interior of the region had been entirely cleared of Czech army units.

JOHANNESBURG, March 18 (INS).—All key points in the Union of South Africa were heavily guarded today and air force units were ready to proceed to southwest Africa. It was feared a state of emergency may arise following refusal of the government to allow a shipment of German immigrants to land.

MOVE TO KILL U. S. NEUTRALITY CURB

WASHINGTON, March 18 (INS)—Receipt of a note from Germany announcing its occupation of the former Czech provinces of Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia was disclosed today by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles. The note and this government's reply, which is in the process of being drafted, will be made public by the department early next week, Welles said.

WASHINGTON, March 18 (INS)—An administration drive to repeal the neutrality act, so the United States can help arm democracies of Europe in event they are attacked by totalitarian powers, was under way in Congress today.

This administration move was expected to meet stiff opposition on Capitol Hill.

At the same time, sponsors of the war referendum resolution and the bill to take the profits out of war sailed into action.

Senators LaFollette (D.) of Wisconsin, and Clark (D.) of Missouri, were lining up witnesses to appear at a public hearing in support of the war referendum.

Led by Senator Bone (D.) of Washington, 45 senators already have signed a bill to take profits out of war. They propose to introduce it next week.

AWAIT NEXT MOVE

The Capitol meanwhile debated the question of what will happen next in Europe. Beneath this speculation, ran a strong demand for America to "mind its own business."

The government's denunciation of Hitler for setting Czech-Slovakia drew generous approval in Congress. Speculation over Hitler's next move was varied. Some authorities believe Hitler has planned a surprise attack on France.

Others saw no danger to France. This group placed Hitler's next goal to the north, east and south.

SEES BRITISH-NAZI DEAL

One of the best known statesmen in Congress, an authority on international affairs, predicted Hitler would be content for a while. He added:

"I know it to be a fact that Britain is behind Hitler in the Czech-Slovakia seizure. Britain wants Hitler to be supreme in central Europe. Britain regards him as a stabilizing force and barrier against Communism."

"Britain will give Hitler a free hand in Europe so long as he makes no move that threatens the British position. This means, of course, that Hitler will not support Mussolini in any real effort to seize control of the Mediterranean."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis (D.) of Illinois agreed Britain had an "understanding" with Hitler, Lewis said.

"The plan of Germany is along a perfectly straight course to carry out the declarations to get to the sea at the south and east. This move is to erect in every

Chamberlain Can't Smile Over Crisis

BIRMINGHAM, England, March 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain left here today in grim mood to attend an extraordinary cabinet session in London.

To a photographer who asked him for a "smiling" pose, he answered:

"There is an occasion now and again when one cannot smile. This is one of them." Chamberlain, who was to have celebrated his 70th birthday here today, abandoned his famous umbrella. He walked with his hands in his pockets.

possible manner a continuous Germany from Berlin to the Italian coast.

"MIND OWN BUSINESS"

"My judgment is England well understands this and is taking no steps to oppose it, because of an understanding Germany will not move toward India."

"A direct alliance with England will be Germany's next step in order to be let alone in pursuing her course to the Italian border."

"Now, does this present any problem to the American people? No. America must mind her own business, make an effort to have her treaties respected and keep her hands off outside affairs."

British Trade Envoy Talks 'Gospel of Kick'

LONDON, March 18 (AP)—Overseas Trade Secretary Robert S. Hudson departed today for Warsaw, Moscow and other northern capitals on a mission to convince Germany's neighbors "there is still plenty of kick" left in the British Empire despite the recent trend of events. He hinted political discussions might overshadow other aspects of his tour, ostensibly to spur Britain's trade.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky was at the station to bid him goodbye.

A NAZI demand that the Bucharest government end all activities designed to expand its industrial powers, has been rejected by King Carol of that country, it was reported today.

Czech Cabinet Meets to Adopt New Nazi Laws

PRAGUE, March 18 (AP)—The Czech cabinet meets today to reorganize the government of Bohemia and Moravia under the German protectorate in accordance with the ideas of Nazism.

"It was the second time within six months that the Czechs found it necessary to revamp their state organization. The first was after Munich and loss of Sudetenland."

The cabinet of Rudolph Beran remains, at least for the present, and Dr. Emil Hacha still bears the title of president under the Nazi supervision.

The cabinet was called to set up a new regime by changing the constitution, abolishing the Senate and delegating the Chamber of Deputies to legislate with all its members belonging to one party—the National Unity Party.

General Rudolf Gajda, Fascist leader, issued an order to his anti-Semitic followers forbidding them to take individual action against Jews, since legal measures to restrict Jews already are being enforced.

The frontiers will be opened again on Sunday to everyone not wanted by the secret police.

NAZI 'PROTECTOR' RULES IN PRAGUE

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—Adolf Hitler put Germany's authority over her new Bohemian-Moravian protectorate in the skilled diplomatic hands of Baron Konstantin von Neurath today.

Von Neurath, president of the Nazi secret cabinet council and former foreign minister, was named Reichs-protector of the 7,000,000 inhabitants of Bohemia-Moravia before Hitler left Vienna for home after a three-day tour of his new realm.

Von Neurath will have Prague as his official residence. He will have veto powers over acts of Bohemian-Moravian administrators.

Karl Hermann Frank, Nazi deputy district leader for Sudetenland, is to be his secretary of state, and Kurt Von Burgdorf is to be ministerial director.

Official sources predicted Emil Hacha, Czechoslovakia's last president, would remain as the protectorate's "chief of state," with General Rudolf Gajda, Fascist leader, as chief of the cabinet.

Though Hitler left Vienna this morning, spokesmen said he probably would not reach Berlin tonight and the elaborate welcoming ceremonies had been postponed until Sunday evening.

The Fuehrer's route was kept secret, but it seemed probable he would travel through Reichenberg and Breslau.

CZECH BOSS—Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Hitler's right-hand man, today was placed in charge of subject Czech territory.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS PRESS

Grab Gives Hitler Huge Army in Air

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Goering announced today formation of a new air force command for Germany's new eastern domains, a move officially described as "a tremendous strengthening of the German air force."

In official quarters it was said this step meant "exceeding all plans hitherto made for building up" the Reich's already powerful aviation.

Goering announced the new command would be known as No. 4 and would embrace Austria, Bohemia, Moravia and parts of the Sudetenland and Silesia.

Lieutenant General Alexander Loehr, in charge of the air force of Denmark (Austria), was promoted to be general of aviation and placed in command.

Real 'Czecho' Now in U. S.!

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—A four-story stone building in Embassy Row constituted possibly the only free Czechoslovakian territory in the world today.

The Czech minister, Vladimir Hurban, stood by his determined refusal to turn the legation over to the German embassy.

"My government, put through the third degree, yielded to the occupation of my country and was deposed," he said here in a radio (NBC) interview. "But I am here in the United States as a representative of my people, and the Czechoslovakian legation still stands, if only as a symbol that my people are still alive and that the extinguishment of the liberties of a free and independent people, according to Mr. Welles, will be only temporary."

What Rumania Has That Hitler Needs

(By Associated Press)

Rumania, rich in oil and wheat, would be a priceless addition to Germany's economic sphere of influence.

Almost half of the surface of the nation is tilled soil producing primarily wheat, rye, barley, oats and corn. It has rich vineyards, orchards and forest lands.

In 1937, Rumania was the world's sixth largest producer of oil, behind only the United States, Soviet Russia, Venezuela, Iran and the Netherlands.

Her mines also yield salt, lignite, iron, copper, pyrites and zinc and an important by-product of her oil wells is natural gas.

Principal Rumanian industries are flour milling, brewing and distilling.

Rumania, which already sells most of its exports to Germany and buys most of its imports from Germany, steadily has been looting larger as an objective of German foreign policy.

Besides its resources, Rumania has strategic importance to Germany as a geographic outpost of the Soviet Russian Ukraine which, Adolf Hitler has said, would be a great help to realizing Nazi ambitions.

The northeastern frontier of Rumania's 113,888 square miles borders the Ukraine along the Dniester river from the three-nation frontier with Poland to the Black sea.

On the west, however, Germany is separated from Rumania by Hungary and Carpatho-Ukraine, the state which seceded from dissolved Czechoslovakia and was annexed by Hungary.

Compared to Germany's 80,000,000 subjects, Rumania's population is only 19,000,000. Against the German army of 3,000,000 men, including trained reserves, Rumania could put into the field only 1,828,000 men.

HOWLAND TELLS HIS OWN STORY

even if I did know the cops were looking for me, everywhere.

I decided to get rid of the machine. (Howland refused to enlarge on this but Federal agents recovered the Horne automobile in Wilkesburg, Penn., where it was held by a second-hand dealer. The dealer maintained he had purchased it from a man answering Howland's description.)

Then we rode by train for a while. We had another fellow—a hitchhiker—we picked up—with us. We bought him a ticket to Memphis, and all three of us traveled in style for once.

But the dough started to run low in Memphis and I decided we ought to get moving.

We hopped a freight and were doing all right until railroad dicks dumped us out at Wynne, Arkansas.

ANOTHER LUCKY BREAK

I got a break there, because I didn't have the gun anymore. I had thrown it away the day before, when we were going over a river.

Well, we started hitch-hiking for St. Louis but soon turned south and ended up at San Antonio, Tex.

I got some odd jobs and we managed to keep eating.

Aida got some new clothes and everything was going swell.

One of the fellows we met had an uncle down in McAllen, Tex., so the three of us went down there to see about a steady job.

He didn't have anything for us. He said times were slack, and that we were in McAllen, broke again.

There was only one way to get a decent night's lodging, and that was at the police station.

I said, "Here goes nothin'," and we went in.

The cops were O. K. They offered to put us up until they said we would have to be fingerprinted if we stayed over night. It's the law down there.

Well, I didn't see any posters for me in the station, so I took a chance. We had a good night's sleep and in the morning we bummed enough dough for doughnuts and coffee. What do you think of that?

BREATH OF ERIN—Colorful sight of St. Patrick's Day parade was this Irish jaunting car, purchased in Ireland some 26 years ago by T. C. Haffenreffer, owner of Haffenreffer Company.

We went down to the border at Laredo and crossed over into Nueva Laredo for a nickel each.

I guess we should have stayed in Mexico, but I figured there was more chance of getting a job back in the United States. So we came back.

I was afraid by then to go back to San Antonio for our clothes. We had stayed at a rooming house there and all my extra clothes were left behind. I couldn't take a chance though.

Supposing those kind-hearted cops at McAllen began checking up and discovered they had very special boarders that night. Well, we beat our way to Corpus Christi, Texas. We had eaten money, but that's all.

We were living in a freight car for two days before the fight started.

HEARS AIDA SCREAM

There were four of us in the freight car, me and Aida, Jack Bowdler and James Bowles.

Things were pretty bad. I was down to 76 cents but Bowdler was a pip at making believe he was deaf and dumb.

He used to go out begging, and Aida would go along and help. Me and Jim stayed in the background. People were sorry for Bowdler and his gas got us enough to eat and some times a little extra cash.

Aida and I had one end of the box car to ourselves, but I left her for a few minutes to talk to Jim for a while about getting out of town and the first thing I knew I heard her screaming for me.

Jim and I jumped up and found Aida struggling with Bowdler—the dirty dog. We grabbed him and he pulled out a jackknife.

There was an iron piece of brake shoe and I began to give it to him. He got what was coming to him for touching Aida.

She's my wife, you know. We were married a little while ago in San Antonio.

(Authorities were unable immediately to check on any San Antonio ceremony. Arresting officers found on Howland a two-year-old marriage certificate made out to James Bowles. Howland used that name when first arrested, declaring Bowles was his brother "Jack," and that Aida was "Mrs. Mary Bowles," Howland's wife.)

Bowdler got out of the freight car and started running towards town.

I was pretty mad and started after him.

Some one must have seen it then,

for the cops came up in a cruising car.

They took Bowdler to a hospital, and brought the other three of us into the police station.

BLUFF IS CALLED

After they checked my fingerprints, I knew there was no use trying to bluff it out any longer. They tell me Aida is still refusing to tell them the right story. She's a great girl.

I told her what to say if we ever got into trouble and she seems to be doing it, but I guess it's all up now and you can tell her I've talked and it's all right for her to if she wants to.

That kid is one in a million. No man would want a better one.

I hope I've made her happy 'cause there's going to be a lot of tough sledding ahead. They can't take this trip away from us anyhow. That's what we used to say when things got the toughest.

Sure I'll sign a waiver.

What's the use of fighting?

I guess the world knows that you got me right, and I'll tell the whole story about Miss Horne when I get back up to New Hampshire.

Aida Butler's Dad Will Stand by Her

(By Special Correspondent to the Boston Evening American)

MILTON, N. H., March 18.—Voice abiding faith in his daughter, Edward Butler, father of 15-year-old Aida Butler, declared today he would do all in his power to clear her name.

The Milton schoolgirl, now being questioned at Corpus Christi, Tex., with John Henry Howland, was sought by Federal agents only for information she could give to aid in solving the Grace Horne murder.

"Thank God, she is safe," Butler told the Boston Evening American today.

"It's been a fearful strain, but I know that she will tell the truth."

"We know she had nothing to do with the Horne affair."

hands and let him go. He softened only when he spoke of the girl found with him.

WAIVES EXTRADITION

G-men said they planned to complete all arrangements today to take the murder suspect and the young schoolgirl back to Milton, N. H., where Miss Grace Horne, 61-year-old spinster was slain and robbed of $25 on the night of February 3, this year.

Police said Howland has signed a waiver, stating he was ready to go at once.

The pair sought by every police department in the nation, were picked up in a routine call to investigate a freight yard fight at Corpus Christi.

Aida, Howland told police, had been attacked by another hobo companion. He had gone to her rescue, beating Jack Bowdler, 38, so severely with an iron brake shoe that he is in serious condition today.

GIVES OTHER NAME

Howland, Aida and a fourth man, James Edward Bowles, were taken to the police station for questioning. There, Howland insisted his name was Bowles and that he was the brother of the other arrested man.

He even had Bowler's marriage license, crating back two years to Danville, Virginia. He said Aida was his wife.

Fingerprints revealed him as the long-sought suspect in the murder of Miss Horne, police said.

The slaying last February, undiscovered for approximately 44 hours, shocked the tiny New Hampshire town and was almost immediately blamed on Howland, who was placed at the scene of the crime by several witnesses.

The body of the elderly spinster was found, her head battered and her mouth gagged. There was no trace of the murder weapon.

Her automobile gave Federal agents their first clue when it was located near Pittsburgh, Pa., a few days later. A man answering Howland's description was found to have disposed of it there.

Unlike a store, a newspaper can't run a sale. The only way it can keep its customers, its advertisers coming back for more and bringing more advertisers with them, is to give more for the money. For ten months now the Record-American has had a bigger increase of advertiser-customers in its aisles than has any other Boston newspaper. The ten months began very soon after these two papers were merged . . . giving a lot more for the money. More circulation, city and suburban, and more total circulation! More visibility, more of the advertising within the readers' convenient field of vision! More selling because it does two days' selling instead of just one. And, finally, what brings more advertisers every month into the Record-American, using more and more linage, are RESULTS, more results than these advertisers get for their money in any other Boston newspapers.

Now look at the latest tally of the Record-American's customers who bought advertising space in these papers because they get more for their money.

More customers for us means more customers for you simply because your advertising is on a busier street. Locate your advertising as you locate your store where the traffic is heaviest. 475,000 customers looking at what you have to show and say to them gives a higher average of customers coming through the doors into the aisles and into your sales figures.

MALONE RITES ON MONDAY

Funeral services for Joseph A. Malone, 71, for 45 years an employee of the Jordan Marsh Company, will be held at the Church of St. Mary of the Assumption in Brookline at 9 o'clock, Monday morning. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery in Manchester, N. H.

Mr. Malone was a buyer for the store before he retired because of ill health.

He was born in Ireland, came to this country when he was 17, and became associated with the Jordan store shortly afterward.

Mr. Malone is survived by his wife, who was Katherine Franc, a daughter, Margaret, and two sons, Joseph A. Jr., and Robert T.

First Lady Has Curious Feeling In White House

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 18 (AP)—Describing life in the White House, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said she sometimes experienced a "curious feeling" when working at night in a room where many past Presidents have worked.

"You get a curious feeling that the upstairs rooms of the White House are a place where people have lived and lived hard," she told a lecture audience here.

"Old houses get an atmosphere of their own. And old houses have noises at night. Sometimes when I am working late in my room, where many Presidents have worked, I get the distinct feeling that there is somebody in the room."

Mishap to Police Patrol Delays Court

Municipal court schedules were delayed 10 minutes today after a police patrol from the Joy street station, leaving with nine prisoners aboard, became entangled with the prison gate. The patrol was operated by Patrolmen Joseph Walsh and Thomas Fahey. The prisoners were finally transferred to another patrol and hastened on their belated way to justice.

LUCIUS BEEBE achieves his sparkling best in tomorrow's Advertiser. And that is not surprising. For the top-hat society columnist is writing about his favorite topic—RAILROADS. There isn't a travel fan anywhere who'd think of missing this feature.

THE SMART SET MAGAZINE contains reading pleasure for the whole household. Tested recipes for Mother, gardening for Father, travel for Johnny and books and drama for Mary—everybody's going to find some interesting feature here. That's certain. But this is by no means all one will find. There is also the camera-illustrated trip to a Pack Hall "Deb" party. It is almost like attending the event.

Thomas B. Morgan continues his authentic and reverent story of Pope Pius XII, who he has known for years.

And Collin Cline, presenting a reproduction of a famous painting of the Saviour, writes about one of Jesus' greatest miracles.

SCIENCE PRESSES ON! From Dr. Frederick K. Morris of M. I. T., the Sunday Advertiser receives news that rivals the wonders of Believe-It-Or-Not Bob Ripley. For instance, Dr. Morris tells about an Oriental village that is both a desert and the earth's wettest spot.

BUT SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS—Commissioner Timbity is the Advertiser's authority for the statement that science is making itself felt in the Police Department.

It may surprise readers, but it is true none the less. In numbers larger than ever before, college graduates are seeking patrolmen's jobs. Their applications pour in to headquarters.

FORGOTTEN YOUTH in Newton will be forgotten no longer, the Advertiser learns. The civic-minded community is announcing an ambitious campaign to help them. Particularly will jobless young men and women like this story.

MARRIAGE MAKES A COMEBACK! The Advertiser's reporter makes this interesting discovery. Boston young folks who have delayed the trip to the altar for months are at City Hall filing wedding intentions.

WHY? We won't tell. It's a secret. But not after tomorrow. For the Advertiser intends to reveal it.

THE SPORTS PARADE, bringing to New England the nation's greatest writers and commentators of the athletic world, contains a whole day's interesting reading.

Bill Corum, Austin Lake, Bob Considine, Ed Cochrane, Jack Conway, Dan Parker and Joe Cashman comprise a cavalcade of brilliant wit and expert opinion.

Herb Finnegan spends a day with Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox and tells what he saw and did.

Sam Cohen interviews Joe McCarthy of the world-champion New York Yankees and learns that this winning aggregation fears the Red Sox.

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY is like the desert that follows a tempting meal. Little wonder it is "The Nation's Reading Habit." Rose Mackenberg, chief investigator for the late Harry Houdini in his campaign against fraudulent mediums, continues her story, "When Crime Poses as Spiritualism." Tomorrow, she shows how gangs take advantage of bereaved persons' desires to communicate with the dead.

"Must" reading for every lover of good fiction will be John Hawkins' great novel, "A Girl in Camp." It is a brilliant combination of thrills and romance.

Screen Classic at Trans-Lux

By PEGGY DOYLE

One of the most unusual and delightful pictures, "A Night of the Living Dead," appearing in the Trans-Lux arena, has been made far from Hollywood and its glamour-girls and million-dollar production budgets.

The picture is the great plateau of Northern Alaska, where a 10-year-old boy and his father live in a small cabin, isolated and far from the world.

The "Adventure" picture, being made, is the story of the boy's father, who is a hunter, and the boy, who is a hunter's son, and the boy's father, who is a hunter's son.

Story and Howard, who are twice have won Academy Awards, look a vacation from the usual work to make a picture that will give pleasure to the audience.

Smart Set Fashions

By BETTY ALDEN

A CANDID CAMERA FAN, prowling around the Opera House, would have had a field day at the second performance of the Metropolitan's Boston engagement last evening. . . . Everyone, from the world's greatest opera singer, to the Hub's most distinguished dowager and glamorous debutante, was on hand. . . .

The Governor's wife, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, was one of the throng of music lovers lured by the combination of the great Wagnerian singers, Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior, and the glorious music of "Tristan and Isolde" in which they sang the leading roles. . . . She wore a gown of black satin with a turquoise and silver bolero and strolled during intermission with her debutante daughter Emily. . . .

One of the most regal figures in the throng was Mrs. Guy Warren Walker who attended with Mr. Walker. . . . Her gown of white and silver lame had a short train and she wore a pearl and emerald necklace and corsage of creamy gardenias. . . . Her usual mother of pearl tiara was missing from her beautiful snowy white hair. . . .

Polly Long in Blue Lace

MRS. WILLIAM B. LONG was a real harbinger of spring in a chateau chignon gown made with panels of chartreuse, lilac and pale blue in the skirt, and a cluster of lilacs at the waistline. . . . Her daughter, Polly, chose a gown of pale blue lace with streamers of the same fabric attached to her hair and falling down over her shoulders. . . .

Geraldine Farrar's usual front row seats were occupied by her guests, Mrs. Arthur Quimby and Mrs. Harold Yarlott of Newtonville. . . . A fluffy white maribou cape topped Mrs. Quimby's white taffeta gown and Mrs. Yarlott was in a dinner gown of wine velvet. . . . Miss Farrar, one of the well loved former stars of the Metropolitan, has a pair of Row A seats for every Boston performance. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cox of Cohasset entertained the newlywed John E. Lawrence (Anne Tuckerman) in the box reserved for Mrs. Cox's mother, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft. . . . Mrs. Lawrence chose a becoming gown of filmy black lace and Mrs. Cox wore fuchsia duvetyl with her favorite diamond pin made in the shape of a trotting horse. . . . She is the owner of a famous string of show horses. . . .

Enjoying a smoke in the lobby, Mrs. Robert Hillier was a colorful figure in cherry red and royal blue chiffon, and carrying a huge ermine muff. . . . The Penfield Movers stopped to chat with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. LaCroix of Southbridge. . . . Mrs. Mower, who in professional life is Dr. Sara Jordan, sported an "upsy" hair do and a becoming turquoise chenille bolero over her black gown. . . . Mrs. LaCroix's black chiffon gown was trimmed with row upon row of fringe and had a huge red poppy on one shoulder. . . .

Mrs. Allan Forbes Wears Gown of Black

YARDS OF PEARLS adorned Miss Rose Dexter's fuchsia lame gown and Mrs. Allan Forbes, who enjoyed the music from the front row of the orchestra circle, brightened her black dinner gown with circlets of diamonds on each shoulder strap and a single strand pearl necklace. . . .

Mrs. George S. West's box was filled with young people, including Dorothy and Mary West, Anne Knowles and their beaux. . . . Dottie's shimmering white satin gown was topped by a grape color bolero. . . .

Mrs. Joel Goldthwaite shared her front row seats with her granddaughter, Nancy Meyer, and another outstanding figure in the audience was the Baroness Von Nidda of Chestnut Hill, whose midnight blue gown was enhanced by a cape of white ostrich feathers. . . .

Mrs. Max Talbot wore a pearl necklace with her striking gown of fuchsia taffeta made with a knife pleated tunic and a sheer net yoke. . . . Mrs. Robert Cushman was also present and others in the throng included Mrs. Oliver Wolcott in lustrous black satin with huge scarlet roses on the front. . . .

MR. AND MRS. JOHN PAINE of West Newton will give a dinner party tomorrow for Jane Matthews and her fiancé, Francis Gardner Jackson, whose wedding is scheduled for Tuesday in Union Church, Waban. . . . Polly Klotz, one of Jane's bridesmaids, will be hostess at a luncheon on Monday, followed by a dinner party that evening given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson of Westwood. . . . The day of the wedding the bridal party will gather for luncheon at the Brookline home of Mr. Winward Prescott, whose daughter, Betty, is to be a bridesmaid. . . .

BETSEY CHALIFOUX LYDIA COBB MERRELL BUNCE
LYDIA COBB of Concord (center), in hoop skirts, received valuable assistance from Betsey Chalifoux of Beverly and Merrill Bunce of Chestnut Hill as she put the finishing touches on her costume for dress rehearsal of the Vincent Club's annual revue, "Tonight at Nine," which has its first performance next Thursday in John Hancock Hall.

Vincent Stars To Broadcast

A number of singing stars in the Vincent Club show, which goes on the boards next week, will make their radio debut tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, in a series of broadcasts arranged to introduce the show's music over the air.

Julia Barbour will croon her hit songs over two stations tomorrow, at 1:15 (WEEL) and 7:15 (WHDH), sharing the programs with Ethel Amy and Louise Lang. Franklin Thornhill and Mr. Henry Everett Jr. are members of the board of visitors of the Vincent Memorial Hospital, which benefits from the proceeds of the show.

Patronesses for the show include Mrs. Guido Perera, Mrs. Palfrey Perkins, Mrs. Cunner Pervere, Mrs. J. Hilday Phipps and her daughter, Holly Josephine Perry. Mrs. John C. Phillips, Mrs. Dudley L. Pickman, Jr., Mrs. W. Bruce Pirnie, Mrs. Parsons Plummer and Mrs. Stearns Pitt.

PLAN PENNY SALE NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Under the direction of Emma Senale of Revere, the Felix Forte auxiliary will hold a penny sale Tuesday evening at the Parker House.

Assisting her are Mrs. William Nazario of Arlington, Mrs. Anthony Marciano of Somerville, Mrs. Achille Forte of Revere and Mrs. Stanley Martini of Roxbury.

FOOD SALE IN MELROSE

To swell its charity fund, Melrose lodge of Elks held a food sale today at 449 Main street, Melrose. Mrs. Patrick Decorey, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Charles Dicceca, Mrs. Walter Frazee, Mrs. Timothy Murphy, Mrs. William McCormack and Mrs. Herbert Sweet.

VINCENT CLUB GIRLS READY FOR DRESS REHEARSAL

Proparvulis Bridge Next Saturday

With the smartest fashions of the spring season being shown by club members and a lavish display of furs, the Proparvulis Club will hold its fashion show and bridge next Saturday afternoon, March 25, at the Copley-Plaza.

Chairman of the show Edna Abbiatti of Quincy, has appointed Flora Tomasello director of chances and Mary Prendergast in charge of properties. Ushers will be directed by Rita Carlin. Agnes Dole is serving as chairman of the fashion committee. Marion Deady is selecting prizes for the high scores.

Serving on the general committee are Evelyn O'Donnell, Edna Marshall, Alice Dunphy, Mary Curran, Helen Donovan, Alice Holm, Ann Dennehy, Teresa Kean, Mildred Cotter, Helen Cushing, Mary Doherty, Frances Sawuck, Mary Lordan and Patricia Travers.

At the regular meeting of the club, tomorrow afternoon at the Copley-Plaza, Rev. Robert Harry, spiritual director, will discuss the meaning of St. Patrick's Day. A program of classical and Irish folk songs will be presented by the St. Francis Glee Club of Newton, under direction of Emma Ecker.

Regis Guild Meets Tuesday

Elizabeth Hurley, chairman of the state planning board, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Regis College Guild Tuesday afternoon at League House, 1 Arlington street. The musical program will be presented by Martha Hurley, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude McCarron Matthews.

Presiding at the tea urns will be Mrs. C. W. Finerty, Mrs. John Broderick, Mrs. John Devlin, Mrs. John Gahan, Mrs. William Knudsen and Hannah Reardon.

On Monday afternoon, guild members meet at the Belmont Woman's Club for a small tea and bridge in aid of the building fund. Chairman of the benefit is Mrs. George Cole of Belmont.

GEORGE P. HAMLIN, JR., TO BRING BRIDE HERE

The many Boston friends of George Penabdy Hamlin, Jr., son of Mrs. G. P. Hamlin of Brookline are looking forward to his visit here in the early spring with his bride, the former Edelgard Kohlmeier.

The couple was married last week at Guatemala City, home of the bride's uncle and aunt. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Kohlmeier of Costa Rica.

Notre Dame Grads Sponsor Dance

A Viennese waltz contest conducted by the Arthur Murray dancers will be a feature of the merry Easter hop which the Boston Academy of Notre Dame is holding Easter Tuesday evening, April 11, at the Hotel Sheraton.

The alumnae committee is headed by Billie Noonan whose assistants include Edith McPhee, Helen Harvey, Mary Schuber, Muriel Kingsley, Marion Champs, Priscilla White and Betty Crosby. Other alumnae assisting are Kathleen Hennesbury, Mary Dulin, Helen Neal, Kay Falvey, Gertrude Gillis, Anne Joyce, Nancy Finnegan, Agatha Krehane, Loretta Logue, Jean Lappen and Eleanor Spillane.

Agnes Perry Cambridge Bride

Climaxing a whirl of pre-wedding parties, comes the marriage this afternoon in Friends Meeting House, Cambridge, of Agnes Nicholson Perry to Nicholas Conover English, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conover English of Summit, N. J.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haines Perry of Dover, was guest of honor at a dinner party given last evening by Mrs. Arthur Perry and Mrs. Francis C. Hall at the former's Marlborough street home, and this noon the whole bridal party was entertained at luncheon by the bridegroom's mother.

Agnes is wearing a princess gown of white satin, with heliolum lace adorning the neck and attached to the skirt in scallop effect and caught with orange blossoms. Her veil falls from a wreath of orange blossoms and she is carrying white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Nathan Talbot and Marjory Perry, the honor attendants, are wearing pink and raspberry moire gowns and carrying bouquets of pink roses and delphinium. The bridesmaids, Eleanor Perry, Jodie Perry, Priscilla Hall, and Dorothea Nicholson, are wearing similar outfits of hyacinth blue moire, and the little flower girl, Ann Nicholson, is carrying a basket of sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots with her costume of pink chiffon with a deep collar of lace.

"Steve awoke from a deep slumber, some time later, to the sound of gnawing and growling. He rubbed his eyes and stared at the thin folds of the curtain. It was dark, very dark."

"What's that? Does she have epilepsy?" he muttered. "Then he saw one of Albert's eyes. He was watching that paw."

"Wurr-uff!" said Albert suddenly. The curtain plopped down over him and muffled his cry of victory. "Gloria sat up in terror, clutching the bedclothes."

"WHO'S THERE?" "What's the matter? Who is it?" "Oh!" "Steve pretended to be asleep."

"What do you mean by sneaking me like that?" She really did sound frightened. "There was silence, except for the subdued growling of Albert and the soft cry of a loon from across the lake."

"Please put it back up." Steve did an elaborate imitation of a man waking out of a profound slumber. "Him? He said 'Who's there?'" "I think that was a mean trick. After all the trouble I went to—"

"Go to sleep." "I can't go to sleep. My heart is beating like a trip-hammer." "Steve got up and fumbled around with the curtain. How did this damn thing work, anyway?"

YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS

Bread Makes You Fat?

Nonsense!

Says Science

Authorities Disprove Mistaken Ideas Foolishly Cherished by People Who Insist that "The Staff of Life" Puts on Weight

IT isn't the dizzy pace of modern life that makes today's men and women—particularly the women—the quickly, according to scientists. It's a lack of food energy caused by fads, superstitions and fancies concerning diet, the authorities say. They blame the persistent but mistaken methods that try to streamline waistlines not only by cutting down on "the staff of life" but by putting the taboo on other foods such as candy, potatoes, milk and cake. These—as well as bread—are not fattening, as clearly revealed in an unusual article in the coming issue of The American Weekly.

AL LOPEZ, GREATEST NATIONAL LEAGUE

Backbone of Bees Team, Say Experts

By JOE CASHMAN

BRADENTON, Fla., March 17—Del Baker, commenting on the scarcity of catchers, opines that Bill Dickey is the only finished receiver in the majors.

The Tiger pilot probably means to say in the American League.

Either that, or Del never has had the good fortune to see Senior Al Lopez, Bees' captain, in action back of the plate.

Dickey, thanks to his big bat, is the greatest catcher in the game—a round ball with Mickey Cochrane out of the picture and "Gabe" Hartnett slowing up, but crack receiver that he also is the Yankee star runs second to Lopez behind the bat.

The diminutive Tampa-born Spaniard is tops in the big show field when he dons mask, mitt and shin guards.

Every unprejudiced judge as well as every partisan American League who has seen the senior perform agree on this:

"There's not a catcher in our league who couldn't learn something of the art by watching Lopez," chirps manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox.

NATURAL PLAYER

"The best catcher in the game," say the master-minds of the Washington Senators after glimpsing Lopez calmly catching their dazlingly fast but very wild Cuban rookie, whom none of the Harris receivers could hold.

Al makes catching look like the easiest rather than the hardest job on a ball club.

He could roll out of bed on Christmas morning and give as scintillating a show as he does in mid-season.

He never once went behind the plate down here this spring until the opening exhibition game against the Cardinals.

Yet watching him in that tilt, you'd have sworn he'd been catching all winter.

In the first inning, Debs Garma made a wild throw in an attempt to toss out Don Guttridge, fastest runner in the league.

The ball scooped past "Buddy" Hassett. Guttridge scooted on towards second. But he never got there.

Lopez had matched Don's speed up the base lines, was waiting for the ball beyond first base and threw a strike to Eddie Miller to erase the Cards' speed merchant.

An inning later, A Redbird tried to steal.

Al Lopez

Without getting up off his haunches, Al made his first play to second throw of the spring and nipped the runner with plenty to spare.

Later on, a Card took an average lead off first.

Al, throwing behind the batter, flipped to Hassett and the runner was out in the opinion of every body in the park except Umpire Charlie Moran.

With his mechanical assets, his keen mind, his knack of sizing up hitters and his ability to handle pitchers, Lopez represents close to 50 per cent of the strength of the Bees.

Injuries kept him here de combat a good part of the past two seasons, each of which saw the Swarm finish in fifth place.

Expectancy that he'll be able to catch regularly this campaign is, more than anything else, the answer to the Bees' confidence that they'll finish in the 1939 money.

Lou Fette Ties

Up Yanks, 9 to 6

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18 (INS)—Unable to cope with the tricky service of Veteran Lou Fette, the world champion New York Yankees settled for the short portion of a 9 to 6 score in an exhibition game with the Boston Bees.

Fette gradually allowed one run to Yankee batters in the six innings he was on the mound.

'Pure' Tops Monday's Program

Serving as an elimination series, the amateur boxing show to be held at the Boston Arena next Monday night, under the auspices of the Irish-American A. A., will determine the make-up of the Boston team which will swap punches with Buffalo and Philadelphia on March 27.

Next Monday night there will be eight classes of competition—six in the open divisions at 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds and two groups for novices at 147 and 160 pounds.

From the way in which the entries have been pouring in for next week's meeting, the fans are in for another lengthy evening of boxing.

Among those on file are Tony Pisano, No. Adams; Zello DiTomasso, E. Boston; Emille Spiridone, Lawrence and James Bannan, Jamaica Plain in the 118—Dick Shock, Warrar, N. H.; George Demers, Somerville; Coleman Walsh, So. Boston, and John Rizzo, E. Boston, in the 126—Joe An-Boston; Win Hector, Boston; George Beckles, Cambridge, and Jimmy Espodito, Brookline, in the lightweight class.

In the welterweight bracket are James Pettie, Woburn, Charles Semar, Woburn, William Bigger, Woburn, Steve Lombardi, Cambridge; Joe DeLuca, E. Boston, and Edward Robinson, Newburyport.

The 160 pounders are James Bellows, Marlboro; Vinnie Farr, Warner N. H.; William Connelly, Roxbury; Manuel Rogers, Vineyard Haven; James Marks, Roxbury, and John Lycurgus, Boston.

Dick George, Boston, and Phil Chapman of Dorchester are entered in the heavyweight class.

Johnny Mize Ruins Red Sox

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18—The St. Louis Cardinals in a thrilling 12-inning game nipped the Boston Red Sox with a score of 5 to 4.

Johnny Mize, first sacker of the Cards easily proved himself the hero of the game with a homer in the eighth frame which evened the score and his hit in the twelfth which eventually gave the St. Louis club the game.

Cardinals: 5 runs, 10 hits, 1 error. Red Sox: 4 runs, 10 hits, 1 error.

Cardinals: 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th. Red Sox: 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th.

An American League pennant! Maybe. But it all depends on the trusty arms of Johnny Allen, Bob Feller and Mel Harder, pictured from left to right, as they talk over prospects for the coming season. Cleveland has high hopes that the trio will snag enough victories to assure them of the flag.

Dodgers, at Least Have New Livery

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18—Brooklyn has always been noted for its bizarre baseball, but not even in the halcyon days of the McKeever-Ebbets feud, with Robby as manager and Babe Herman in right field, has Brooklyn ever fielded a more bizarre club than the one which Leo Durocher is bringing over here tomorrow to play the Red Sox.

If ever a club was loaded with impossibilities, this 1939 edition of the Dodgers is it.

Look it over: LAZZERI ON HAND

Leo Durocher is manager. It is his first attempt at directing a big league club.

For assistance he has Bill Killefer and Chuck Dresen. Both are former major league managers.

Killefer has piloted the Cubs and Browns. Dresen had the Reds before Bill McKechnie took them over last year.

Do you think these boys would refuse a manager's job?

As an infield reserve, the Dodgers have Tony Lazzari, who has been looking for a pilot's job since he quit the Yankees a couple of years back.

WHAT A TEAM

As a catching spare, the Dodgers have Luke Sewell, washed up as a player after serving with Cleveland, Washington and Chicago White Sox since 1921.

Don't you imagine Sewell would take a manager's job?

Just imagine the second guessing that will go on among those four after the Dodgers lose a close one and Durocher hurries out for an early appointment.

Let's look at the shop-worn lineup which took the field against the Sox junior variety.

CATCHER: BABE PHELPS. Formerly with the Cubs and a hold-out early this year.

PITCHER: LUKE HAMLIN. Formerly with the Tigers.

PITCHER: WHITLOW WYATT. Formerly with the Tigers, White Sox and Cleveland. Last year in the minors.

FIRST BASEMAN: DOLPH CAMILLI. Formerly with the Cubs and Phillies.

SECOND BASEMAN: PETE COSCARART. Rookie who won't last long with Lazzari around.

SHORTSTOP: DUROCHER. Formerly with the Yankees, Reds and St. Louis Cardinals whose leuda with Frisch are famous.

THIRD BASEMAN: COOKIE LAVAGETTO. Formerly with the Pirates.

CENTERFIELDER: TUT STAIN. Formerly with the Cubs and Phillies.

RIGHT FIELDER: GENE MOORE. Formerly with the Bees.

Practically everyone a flop with other big league clubs.

CAMILLI, PHELPS and DULROCHER are the only top notch ball players on the roster, though Ernie Koy, who probably will start in center field, is rated highly.

Koy formerly belonged to the Bees.

The Rocking Chair Social and Athletic club was talking it over.

Said Tom McEnaney: "There'll be a jam before the season starts."

Track Conditions Give Candor Edge

By DAVE WILSON
(Selections for Fast Track)
BEST BET—CANDAR

TROPICAL PARK, Coral Gables, Fla., March 18.—Candar has always showed a marked liking for this soft strip and off a recent bang-up third behind Velvet Mask and Black Buddy easily gets top billing over the field down to contest the second race here this afternoon.

The veteran gelding was beaten a scant length for top money in that recent endeavor and needs only to run-back to any part of that race to romp home in front. Diavolo Cliff has all the makings of a good colt and should have little trouble annexing the third canto. His debut was very rough and with clear sailing today he should alone for that third behind Equistar and Smilin' Jack.

Newsom on Terms

With Brown Boys

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 18 (AP).—Buck Newsom, rascaltastic St. Louis Browns' pitcher, celebrated St. Patrick's day by signing a one-year contract at an undisclosed figure.

It was considered likely Newsom gave ground for his demand for $20,000. The Browns were reported to have offered him $14,000.

SPORT-O-GRIMEY

In their final practice session of the year, the Bruins were driven at top speed yesterday by Manager Art Ross . . . Frank Brimsek, who has been a flu victim is still not himself . . .

He is weak and still running a fever . . . Incidentally, six of Brimsek's ten shut-outs were made away from home . . . Due to the fact that the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association refuses to recognize the A. A. U. the local body will lose its jurisdiction over "the fastest game on earth."

Frank Selke, the major domo of the Toronto Maple Leafs publicity department, seldom sends out any erroneous statements . . . So he must have been crossed up when he announced that Syl Apps had no intentions of entering politics . . .

A Wichita Falls hockey fan is suing the St. Louis Flyers for $5000, because his noggin was inadvertently or otherwise in the path of Jean Fosse's stick . . . Bill Tuohy, who was with the Bruins a few years ago, is now the outstanding amateur of the Ottawa Senators . . .

Tommy Waters, boss of the Garden box office men predicts that there will be five play off games here this spring . . . Tommy called the turn last year when he predicted that Toronto would take the Bruins in straight games . . .

Auslie Harding, the Harvard captain is through with hockey for this season but, he has advised Walter Brown that he'll be with the Olympics next year . . . Because of the pulled hip ligaments, Earl Robertson, the Americans' goal tender may be out of the play off . . .

Amateur hockey was introduced to Washington, D. C. fans Wednesday night . . . The Baltimore Orioles and New York Rovers of the Eastern States Amateur League put on an exhibition before 7500 customers . . . In the new Riverside stadium, an outdoor artificial ice plant, the promoters estimated they turned away another thousand . . . The Riverside stadium is located near the banks of the Potomac close to the Lincoln Memorial . . . Mud Brantford expects to be back in the Detroit Red Wings' line-up during the N. H. L. playoffs . . .

He has been out of the game since Christmas Eve, when he was injured in Toronto . . . Sam LaFrentz, the St. Paul goal-tender recently was arrested for assaulting a foul judge . . . Tommy Gorman must be slipping, for during his recent visit here he failed to contact the press . . .

Lewis, Clark Bout Off

DETROIT, March 18 (AP)—John J. Hettebe, chairman of the Michigan Board of Athletic Control, announced that the fight between John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, and Dave Clark of Detroit has been called off because of an injury to Lewis' left eye. Lewis was to have defended his title against the Detroit Negro here March 31.

Hettebe said an examination of Lewis by two physicians had revealed the champion was "in good condition except for his left eye."

South Shore Bowlers Flock to Pin Tourney

Joe Grant's Eagles of the Eagle alleys, Roxbury, will be shooting for high honors in the fourth annual candlepin tournament sponsored by the American-Record.

By WALTER KILEY

Eddie Morrissey, enthusiastic proprietor of the Norfolk Downs alleys, hands us a large batch of South Shore entries today, men and women who hope to turn the title trick in the fourth annual Boston Evening American-Daily Record candlepin bowling championships which get underway one week from today.

Coming to the Huntington Club from Norfolk Downs are two capable teams, the Gabelots No. 1 team, S. Boulette, H. McConery, L. Braumers, E. Hassett and Grace Cann; the Gabelots No. 2 team of J. Avery, C. Caulfield, E. McDonnell, H. Kaye and C. Berrie.

Norfolk entries in the women's singles include, in addition to those already named, M. Olson, E. Leonard, G. Miller, P. Poole, F. Glynn and M. Keene.

Norfolk County Courthouse in Dedham comes in with a strong women's team, with Alice Kendall, E. Augusta Cain, Grace Brooks, Gertrude Gelhecker and Mildred Kieber.

Harold Colby of Newburyport files a team which he affectionately calls "The Hoboes."

JOHNNY TAGG ON JOB

Johnny Tagg of Fitchburg rushes along the five men team entry of the Lion D'Or Club which bowls regularly at the Palace Alleys, Fitchburg. The lineup is Bedford Caddy, Paul Ceehin, Roland Gendron, Roy Perry, George Fava and Arthur Lavigne. All will bowl as well in the singles and doubles.

Tagg also has the Hillside Cafe team coming from the Fitchburg Palace Alleys. Their names are due any moment.

The girls are really getting steamed up now. Here's an entry from Greenfield, a team entry.

There's Milla Fallou, Helen Finie, Kathleen Nadeau, Julia Roberge and Florida Lamoureux. They're all in the singles and doubles, too.

John McDonough of Heath street, Brookline, captains the St. Lawrence team of Brookline, L. Mahon, T. Larkin, M. Morrison and V. Gale. Paul Saint of Brighton, student at Holy Cross College, enters the collegiate fold while Bob Bouffia and Fred Besie of Brookline high join the schoolboy gang.

Such returns from our New England bowling fans makes the work entailed in conducting this annual tourney a joy instead of a labor.

ALL WELCOME

But large as the entry lists are now we still want more. We want all of New England's bowlers to be with us during the 13 competitive days starting next Saturday which make the Huntington Club the nation's candlepin capital.

Of prime importance to those who have waited for the last minute, is the fact that entries close next Tuesday at midnight. So may we again urge one and all to beat the deadline hour, to get their entries into today's mails.

Ruth Weedbacher of the Anagram team sure takes her bowling seriously. She is also among the tournament hopefuls.

RUDGE ELECTED

AMHERST, Mass., March 18 (AP)—Alfred Rudge of Worcester, a forward, was elected captain of next season's basketball team at Massachusetts State College.

Sonny Prepares For Steve Casey

Again the idol of thousands of wrestling fans, and again champion of all he surveys, Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg today made plans to begin immediate training for his bout with Steve (Crusher) Casey, ex-title holder, at the Boston Garden, Wednesday night, March 29.

Gus had verbally agreed to meet Casey in the event he pinned The Shadow, who turns out to be Marvin Westenberg, and both the new champion and the mighty Crusher signed formal contracts for the bout.

Sonny-boy said he will swing into training Monday and continue all through the week and until the day before the bout. Of course he was elated at his sensational victory which climaxed a grand comeback. "Well, The Shadow wasn't so tough after all, was he?" he asked while opening hundreds of congratulatory telegrams.

Casey, celebrating St. Patrick's Day, and all decked out in a bright green tie and a shamrock on his lapel, was tickled that he gets a chance so quickly to regain his title.

"I don't know what Sonnenberg is as a wrestler, but he's a sportsman all right, giving me a chance like this. I know I can win back the title and I think Sonnenberg's reign as champion will be just as short as The Shadow's, two weeks."

Bowling Prizes

Prizes for the American-Record bowling championship run into the hundreds, most of them costly. Following are a few of the more prominent awards to be made:

- GRUEN WATCH COMPANY, 365 Washington street, Boston—Treasurer Waffle Baker, Remington Rand electric shaver, Emerson table radio.
- COLONIAL PROVISION CO., Inc.—128 Cross street, Master Deluxe Hamm, Master smoked shoulders.
- NEW ENGLAND DOLL AND

NOVELTY COMPANY, 174 Washington street—Three Rolls candid camera.

HORACE PARTRIDGE SPORTING GOODS COMPANY, Franklin street—Official H. P. kangaroo bowling shoes.

THE LOBSTER CLAW, 250 Huntington avenue—Lobster dinners to man and woman turning in highest daily three string totals.

In addition there are trophies by Tobin, Joseph Grant of Roxbury, John Ambrose of Kenmore Recreation and Wonderland Park, Revere, the latter by the kindness of the Greyhound Racing Association. And there are countless medals and other merchandise prizes.

AIDA BUTLER

Boasting of eluding police for weeks, John H. Howland, Milton, N. H., held in Texas, confessed today, police said, to the slaying of Grace Horne, in Milton, N. H., last month. With him, but cleared, was Aida Butler, 15, his cousin.
